

How students can get involved in making a difference through ACCESS with their schools

Inviting ACCESS to Make a Presentation at Your School

What better way to spark interest and educate your school than a live presentation? The informational presentation can discuss ACCESS, Social Justice, Youth Activism, and the Dominican Republic Exposure Trip at your school or group event. Once inspired, your school can make a difference and take action through ACCESS!

Hosting a School Supply Drive

Invite your school's students to collect various school supplies such as paper, pens, notebooks, and more. Donations are shipped through Dr. Simone's Canadian Food for Children, whose Mississauga warehouse ships out more than 400 containers of food and goods for children in 28 of the poorest parts of the world.

Participating in the Student Contests Program

A great program to raise awareness and engage students in activities relating to issues in the developing world. As students you'll be able to express your understanding of the injustices in the today's world. Your school may enter our contests at set times during the year, competing with students from a variety of other schools. You may also host your own program in your school through ACCESS.

Downloading Educational Resources and Contributing to the ACCESS Blog and Website

With the Internet being one of today's most popular communication devices, ACCESS has created a fully functioning website; full of resources for educators, including lesson plans and fundraising activities. Our online presence also invites students to post and respond to discussions in on our official Blog and Facebook group.

The Goal of ACCESS: Allowing Children a Chance at Education, Inc.

Our goal is to provide needy children in the developing world with school uniforms and necessary school supplies, so that they have the opportunity to obtain the education required to find decent employment and support their families. In addition, we aim to educate youth in North America about relevant issues and the current situation in the developing world.
